

T-Bone Slim

Whenever the employing class becomes incompetent to care for its own interests and those interests it has allocated to itself, it is the duty of society to disqualify it.

Whenever the employing class allocates to itself interests that reasonably belong to the working class, society is duty bound to snub it.

Whenever the employing class is at variance with the aspirations of nation and detrimental to its welfare, it is the duty of society to call it on the carpet to show cause why it should not be placed on probation.

Whenever the employing class is out of touch, wholly unconscious of world development and economic conditions, and wrongly performs in its abysmal ignorance, it is the duty of society to re-educate it.

Whenever the employing class has separated labor from sufficient values through the medium of insufficient wages and exorbitant profits, so as to jeopardize the satisfaction of labors needs, in the whole or part, it is society's duty to call it to an accounting.

Whenever the employing class has substituted machine power for man power in such large quantities as to make millions of workers public charges it is society's duty to discover where the money went.

Whenever the employing class allots to itself the wages of the now displaced workers, in addition to the previous profits under the older method, it is society's duty to determine its right to do so and if it be law, (which it isn't) law will also remove that right.

Whenever the employing class has assumed those rights, pocketed those money's and thus obliterated the buy power of great share of the people, endangering the economic integrity of the nation, it is society's duty to find it guilty of contempt and lodge it in jail.

Whenever the employing class has taken those money's situated them in things of expansion, wholly unconscious of world conditions, needs and commercial possibilities, it is society's duty to lock it in a nuthouse.

Whenever the employing class situates those money's in over-expansion or unsound securities, in blissful ignorance of economic determinism, making for the impossibility of returning those money's to reasonable use, it is society's duty to find those self-advertised geniuses demented.

Whenever the employing class, after destroying the buying power of one-third the people places the cost of the maintenance of the over-expansion and the upbuilding of the worthless securities upon the remaining two-thirds employed, through the medium of short pay, it is society's duty to find it guilty of misfeazance, misrepresentation and misappropriation and also deem it guilty of non-composmentis.

Whenever the employing class so functions as herein cited, disturbs, disrupts and destroys the economic life of the nations, endangers the republic and jeopardizes civilization itself, it is high time society sit up and take notice of these treasonable artifices.

Whenever society lets such demented greed slide, it too is fit subject for a nuthouse.

Whenever government ignores this condition it should be sent to an observation ward.

Whenever labor fails to marshall its forces against those practices of the treacherous employing class, in the interest of preserving himself, his institutions and country, it too should be introduced to the booby-hatch.

All hands seem to be smeared with the same stock. No one is guilty; no one is blameless.

The cause is slavery.

The medium, industrial autocracy.

The condition, capitalism.

Organize.

Political autocracy or dictatorship does not counteract the benefits of industrial democracy except when applied in the exentime and that is insanity.

P. S. It will be noted the employing class guilt does not depend on the general depravity but on the acquiescence in the peculiar perfidy: One employer installs labor displacing machine thus compelling others to follow suit—or out competes them, and wrecks their business; It's do as I do or stand betrayed.

In other words one pickle sours the whole mulligan.

This would not have happened had labor been organized and forced machine to displace time instead of men.

That's what it was intended for.

P. S. Autocracy in industry is stagnancy.
