

(16)

Spain is a country rich in minerals, sulphurs and such — exportable raw materials — and the nation should be well-to-do. But, inasmuch as only church and few other exploiters have the money, we are forced to the conclusion professional exploiters do not frisk the church. Why? What service does the church perform that makes it immune to the standard strike-up of the genteel thieves, racketeers and grafters. Can it be professional ethics that stays the hand of the robber barons and that, after all, there is honor among thieves.