

Milk Strike Won — but the cows still must give 9 kinds of milk — yes, five cents and a fraction the farmer gets for a quart (same as 42 years ago) $2.50 hundredweight (47 qts) — you figure it out yourself.

Before strike they got 3 cts and fraction — we pay 20 cents minus.

Leptke S'renders. Amber, won. 9000 Americans rush to ships to get back to home and mother.

Jittery? What are they afraid of? A few cannon balls? Tush! Tush!

This is but the 137th crisis — and when we recall that Cleopatra had three children, one single and pair of twins, we must concede European leadership is fairly dripping honorifics and wouldn't steal a penny of any man's loot.

The Versailles Treaty jinned the detail of power — commerce and set loose a raft of small free-lance traders out of control — so the big shot controllers got together and said: "Let's go back to Status Quo Ante 1914" — and let economics take the hindmost years ago we used to send hams to Southampton; now Britain sends her hams to Hollywood — we ought to get their autographs on first citizenship papers.
