

Example: One must be one year in good standing to qualify for one year in office. In an labor organization such law is of no value except that it be accompanied by further stipulation to the effect that one must be a bonafide wage earner in one of the many forms of work of the organization continually for one year and, in that case, the employer is sole judge as to whether one shall work full year or only 364 days. In any case the law and its bolster disqualifies in blanket the ones most severely oppressed and serves only preferment and the boss. Its logic is incomplete.

Life based on inequality can be neither prosperous or happy.

Maintenance of inequality measures worlds greatest crime — after so many ghastly lessons. Creation of further inequality brings the inevitable nearer. Organization flirting with any degree inequality shall miss its goal by as many degrees as the inequality it entertains.

Go ahead, boys, But — don't sgawk.
Inequality and solidarity do not mix.

Solidarity is pure McCoy.

Inequality is compromise.

No law can stand of its own accord — it must be "shored by several dutchmen" and them in turn by other "dutchmen" and so on — a devils nightmare.
