

X

It is said "Allies do not need our soldiers; that our boys would not be a help in retreats."

They have millions of men under arms and it is figured additional millions would not make them run faster. However, if you were considering the committing of suicide you would not consult an undertaker for advice — or a gravedigger if he works piecework, or a day worker, for that matter; for one is sure shot "Yes" and the other is sure shot "No" — a tie.

One can't be too cautious.

From these indices it would appear some "nations" think colonial take-offs are worth defending; of paramount importance or imperative because of their present top-heavy social setup...

Other "nations" denied these overseas incomes, consider such take-offs of great value and are willing to gird their loins and go to the front to do so, if necessary, to die for those emoluments...

Present war most conclusively proves that the motivating factor is not altruism — its free-shekels.

Free Enterprise! Peaceful Penetration! Cheerful Ganging! — Free Lunch?

It thinks in the ensuing "misunderstandings" the free lunch will be cut out and the great men will have to take up the study of work as a solution for hot entrees and maple-syrup.

World trade?

Yes, boys and girls, I think we should start feeding our own face instead of trying to ram it down the throats of foreigners in the four corners of the earth — with or without battleships.